From My Heart to Yours

Intentional Evangelism

Pastor, what is your evangelism temperature? Are you warm to evangelism, regularly praying for specific individuals to know Jesus and regularly looking for opportunities to talk to individuals about Jesus?

A study focusing on Evangelism in 1,000 Southern Baptist congregations during the years of 2013 and 2016 was recently completed. Thom Rainer’s research group interviewed what they considered to be the top 5% of pastors in what they refer to as the ‘growing category’ of the study. Pastors in this category were asked, “What is God doing in your church to see people reached with the Gospel?” and “What is happening that we can learn from you?”

The overwhelming answer was ‘Intentional Evangelism.’

Perhaps it would benefit all of us to become more intentional about evangelism. We can do that by:

- Intentionally praying for evangelistic opportunities
- Intentionally building relationships with nonbelievers
- Intentionally seeking to renew a culture of evangelism in your church
- Intentionally planning evangelistic community activities

Evangelism is important. It is where discipleship begins. We aren’t just looking for decisions. We are looking for disciples. Disciples are born through evangelism.

Nazarene Theological Seminary Offering

South Carolina Nazarene ministers are blessed with significant educational opportunities for ministry preparation including Trevecca Nazarene University, Nazarene Bible College (online), Nazarene Theological Seminary (graduate degrees), Carolinas School of Ministry, and a Spanish-language partnership with Nazarene Theological Seminary of the Southern Cone (of South America) located in Pilar, Argentina.

Several of our pastors are graduates of Nazarene Theological Seminary (NTS). January is the month set aside for Nazarene churches in the USA to bless NTS. Dr. Jeren Rowell, recently elected president of NTS, is excited for the opportunity to lead our seminary into a strong future.

Many of our churches simply budget an offering, for which NTS is deeply grateful. However, the opportunity to “tell the NTS story” in the churches is also very important. I would encourage you to show the NTS video and to pray for NTS, in addition to offering your people an opportunity to give as the Lord directs. The video and other resources can be found here: <http://www.nts.edu/seminarianoffering>

The South Carolina District Church of the Nazarene exists to:

- start churches
- strengthen churches
- develop leaders
